

A Port Townsend Historical Beauty

Can Be Yours!!

- Beautifully and meticulously maintained since 1885
- Italianate style
- Original from wood floors to windows and door knobs
- 6 large bedrooms and 6.5 baths
- Converted bedroom below for office to teen getaway!

Henry C. Bash House
718 F Street
Port Townsend, WA

Dreams of Victorian grandeur and commercial prominence awaited the Port Townsend of 1880's. One such visionary was Albert Bash who arrived in 1881 and worked as a customs collector for the Puget Sound region. His father, Henry C. Bash, followed in 1883 to take up duties as an Inspector of Customs, and soon, as U.S. Shipping Commissioner. Henry completed construction of his grand, yet modest home in 1885.

Although Henry had a large office at the U.S. Customs House, now the Post Office on Washington Street, he often had visitors present themselves at his home in his study (now the Dining Room) bearing gifts of coral and exotic birds, which now reside at Jefferson County Historic Museum.

The house stood on one corner of an eighteen acre estate. Tennis courts used to be next to the house. Little has changed in the original structure of the house

Better Homes
and Gardens.
REAL ESTATE

EXECUTIVE

Nancy Stelow
www.nancystelow.com
Port Townsend, WA 98368
360-385-1169

